See ya in The FUNNY PAPERZ...

As of 2018, The FUNNY PAPERZ by Joe King consists of more than two dozen original comic features - each enjoying it's own history of publication and/or syndication since Joe first put pen to paper as a pro in 1978.

When any of these titles surpasses the threshold of mere submission packages to actual archives of published work, Joe's next task is to compile those digital archives into hard copy books for further distribution.

What follows here is a brief catalog of Joe's collected works to date.

The Bay News Adding Local Cartoonists

Community journalism. We have long wanted to get a regular cartoonist into The Bay News. We have two talented artists who have come onboard is fantastic. That the artists have a lot of freedom to do what they want in their cartoons is funny. We are excited to have them on board and brought on several new cartoonists. We added a locally produced crossword puzzle and a Horoscope, too.

The newspaper has a few more changes coming up. We're restructuring our dining guide, which has been absent for several months," said Neil. "The Dining Guide will help steer visitors to the best local restaurants and remind people gone to in places they haven't gone to in a while. There are also other special advertising pages that we're launching in the coming months and we're reporting on them."
